Transitions: Making Sense of Life's Changes: Bridges ...

Bridges' book Transitions: Making Sense of Life's Changes is a must-read for anyone who wishes to understand the internal dynamics associated with external changes. This is also the book's main message: change is an external event, while a transition is an internal experience.

Transitions: Making Sense of Life's Changes | Practice of ...

Bridges' model is: ending, neutral zone, new beginning, and his proposition is that people in a transition need to recognise and accept the endings before we can make a good new beginning. He talks about 5 'D's - disengagement, disorientation, dismantling, dis-identification, disenchantment and disorientation, which seemed to me be various facets of letting go, and essential for good endings.

Transitions: Making Sense Of Life's Changes: Bridges ...

Right now, at this new transition point in your life, remember some of these aborted transition points from your past. One reason it is so difficult to asses transitions is that the impact of transition does not necessarily bear any relation to the apparent importance of the change that triggered it. the big events—divorce, death, losing a job, and other obviously painful changes—are easy ...

Notes from: Transitions: Making sense of Life's Changes by ...

There are three phases: endings, neutral zone and then beginnings to any transition or change in life. It's very hard to be in the neutral zone and it is absolutely essential. Rushing the process, as Bridges says, means we don't fully make sense of the change or transition and are bound to repeat the same situation or stay stuck.
